OPPOSITION TO M'BRIDE.

Officials of the Mine Workers' Union Invited to Resign.

VOTING TO CONTINUE THE STRIKE.

Illinois Miners Declare That the Columbus Compromise Was a Cowardly Surrender—The Dissatisfaction Spreading. Ohio Strikers Still Burning Bridges.

SPRING VALLEY, Ills., June 14.—At a delegate meeting of northern Illinois miners here yesterday, at which at least 10,000 miners were represented, it was unanimously voted to never dig a ton of coal until the operators restore last year's prices. From now on the operators will not only have the foreign miners to combat, but the English speaking miners as well. Resolutions were unanimously adopted expressive of the feelings of the miners of this district. These resolutions, referring to the Columbus compromise, declare that "We, the miners of Spring Valley, Ills., in mass meeting assembled, believe such action on the part of the national officers to be a cowardly surrender of the principle for which we are contending.

"We repudiate the action of our national officers in adopting the aforesaid scale, and call upon those who signed the scale to resign from the positions which they have disgraced. And we demand that the present officers shall call a delegate convention of the miners of the United States at the earliest day possible for the purpose of electing new officers and devising ways and means for continuing the present suspension."

The miners here hope that these same resolutions will be adopted by every local union in the northern and possibly in the southern and central Illinois fields also.

DANVILLE, Ills., June 14.—At a meeting of the coal miners' representatives an exhaustive discussion of the matters in dispute was had. Most of the companies, except the Consolidated Coal company mines were represented. The miners refused to make any sort of proposition for settlement until they heard from the Clinton Ind miners. They agreed to accept five cents a ton less for mining than the Clinton miners agreed to. This blocks the settlement in the Danville district until the Indiana miners agree to a settlement.

PANA, Ills., June 14.—A crisis is apparently approaching in the coal miners' strike here. Permission was asked of the authorities for a parade by the strikers at Camp Pope and by the miners in this city, but the permit was not granted. The strikers then asked Governor Altgeld for protection, stating that they proposed carrying the United States flag. It is believed that if the strikers insist on parading violence will ensue.

SPRING VALLEY, Ills., June 14.—The coal operators of [illegible] submit the following prices to be paid until May 1, 1895: Thirty-five cents a ton gross or [illegible] cents per ton net over 1¼ inch screen, or $1.85 per day, work to be resumed June 16. Leading miners are of the opinion that the strike will continue in this district. A miners' convention will be held on Saturday.

LA SALLE, Ills., June 14.—The miners of this city have adopted resolutions denouncing the action of the delegates at Columbus and calling for the resignation of President McBride and others who signed the compromise. The men resolved not to go to work unless they were paid last year's prices.

STILL DESTROYING BRIDGES

Two More Burned on the Wheeling and Lake Erie Road.

MASSILLON, O., June 14.—Two more bridges were wantonly burned on the Wheeling and Lake Erie railway yesterday afternoon at Fulton's mine two miles east of Sherrodsville. The company had the temerity to assume that the strike was virtually over and moved one train of West Virginia coal. The express was barely out of sight of Sherrodsville when the bridges were burned down and the telegraph wires cut. It will require at least four days to get the road open for freight traffic. The Fifth regiment has been reinforced and now numbers 600 men. The Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling road with guards [illegible] laid for twelve miles. The Massillon [illegible] say they will stay out six months longer rather than to yield the difference which the operators bring to concede.

UHRICHSVILLE, O., June 14.—Reports from along the line occupied by troops show that several nonunion parties were driven away by the soldiers during the night. Sheriff Adams has given Colonel Coit full authority to protect property, prevent stoppage of trains and preserve order. The railroad company is driving piles for a temporary bridge to replace the one burned near Midvale. General Manager Woodford, C. L. and W. R. R., has asked Colonel Coit to protect the bridge one mile south of Beach City and trestle No 118 about one mile north of that place. This trestle was burned last Saturday.

COLUMBUS, O., June 14.—President John McBride of the United Mine Workers stated today that when the miners had read and considered the circular letter sent out by the national executive board they would accept the settlement. He said the miners had forced the matter of the strike last fall and he would have resigned at that time if they had permitted him to do so. He had relieved himself of the responsibility, and the miners would now have to answer it if they continued the strike.

CINCINNATI, June 14.—Dispatches from the mining districts in Ohio show that the miners are more determined than ever to reject the Columbus compromise agreement. They are conferring at different points to prevent work next Monday on the sixty cent scale. Church Humbert, leader of the [illegible] strikers, was taken from the Bellaire jail yesterday to Columbus for trial in the United States court. Marshal Bohl and deputies expect to make arrests in eastern Ohio today.

PIERPONT, O., June 14.—A secret meeting of coal operators was held here at which it was resolved to pay 36 [illegible] per hundred bushels for mining. Owing to the feverish condition of affairs elsewhere this offer will not be met for a few days. The big iron mills here and at Middleport have closed down for lack of fuel.

A Small Sized Riot.

PITTSBURG, June 14.—A small sized riot took place yesterday at the Cliff mine of the Imperial Coal company on the Montour railroad. Ten or twelve men were in the mine cleaning up preparatory to resuming work next week when a mob of about 800 striking miners swooped down on them, drove the guards away and attacked the workmen. [illegible] was chased to his house, where he was beaten badly, and a baby in a cradle was struck by a stone thrown through a window. The other workmen escaped. The strikers went to the company store, bound the clerk and helped themselves to [illegible] crackers, etc.

The Maryland Strikers.

FROSTBURG, Md., June 14.—Efforts at Lonaconing to open the Detmold mine proved unavailing, the men who wanted to go to work being driven back by the strikers. Additional men went to work in [illegible] mine, but the situation at Hoffman mine continues the same, and Hoffman surrendered the key to the strikers. Agitator William B. Wilson was arrested yesterday in Lonaconing on a charge of conspiracy and sent to Cumberland.

No Truce in Colorado.

DENVER, June 14.—The coal miners' strike in the state does not appear to be nearing a settlement. Over three hundred men employed in the Crested Butte mines have decided to strike until the schedule of three years ago is restored. At Spring Gulch the men have gone out. In the Trinidad district but 2½ men are at work in half a dozen mines.

Voted to Bare Their Charters.

WASHINGTON, Ind., June 14.—At a gathering of [illegible] at [illegible] Oak, delegates to the state meeting at Terre Haute were instructed to use means to have McBride removed from the organization. Several unions passed resolutions to bare their charters.

IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

Not a Vote Taken in the Senate on the Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The small crowd in the galleries of the house yesterday was well repaid for its attendance, for at times the proceedings were interesting in the extreme. While but ten pages of the bill were read, some very interesting discussions were precipitated, notably one by Mr Smith of Arizona, relative to the education of Indians, and especially the Apaches at the Indian schools of the east. In the course of his speech he said that it was possible to kidnap Indian boys and girls and send them to school at Carlisle and Hampton, but they would wander back to the reservation and become worse than they were before. The A. P. A. matter was again brought up and caused a slight ripple on the surface of the house, but it blew over after a short passage at arms between Mr Linton and Mr Weadock, both of Michigan. An unusually large number of bills reached final passage, among them being three senate bills.

Again yesterday the entire session of the senate was consumed by three speeches on the free wool question. The temperature in the chamber was stiflingly hot and the senators spoke to empty benches on the floor and a few listeners in the galleries. Altogether it was one of the dullest and most wearisome days of the long three months' debate. Not a vote was taken.

Will Contest Mrs Orchardson's Will.

CHICAGO, June 14.—The estate left by Mrs Minerva Merrick Orchardson, a spiritualist who died at Quincy, is variously estimated at from $40,000 to $400,000, all bequeathed to her husband, Professor Charles Orchardson of Chicago, who was thirty years her junior. Orchardson was formerly a painter of some note, but became a spiritualist and an architect, and was for a time the companion of the noted Mme Diss De Bar. Some two years ago he met Minerva Merrick, a rich ardent philanthropist, and although he was but 30 and she 55 years of age, they were married, he receiving $3,000 in cash as a wedding present. Mrs Orchardson's bequest will be bitterly contested by her relatives.

New York's Police Investigation.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Karl Werner was the first witness of importance before the Lexow police investigating committee yesterday. He testified that he kept a house of ill repute on Delancey street, and that previous to that he served seven years in Sing Sing. He paid $500 to Captain Devery's ward man Gleason, he said, for protection at the start and $30 per month afterward. He had had trouble with the Gerry society and got out of it by paying $1,450 to [illegible]. Werner's trouble with the Gerry society came about through his having in his house a girl as [illegible].

Tired and Weak

NEW MILFORD, N. Y., May 18, 1894.—I was tired and weak in the morning and I could not sleep on account of the pains in my back. I was troubled with sick headache all the time and thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla and have taken twelve bottles. Last summer I did a great deal of work and I thank Hood's Sarsaparilla for it. M. J. PECKER.

Hood's Pills cure indigestion.

It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. Seventy five cents. Sold by J. E. Mills, druggist, Middletown.

STILL STEALING TRAINS

Coxeyites Undeterred by Prosecution and Imprisonment.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 14.—Hubert Wilson, solicitor for the receivers of the Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis Consolidated Railroad company, received a telegram from J. R. Temple, superintendent of the road, that fifty Commonwealers had seized freight No. 98, bound from St. Louis to Louisville, and demanded free passage. Mr. Wilson applied to Judge Allen, of the United States court, for relief, the road being under control of the United States court, and Judge Allen issued orders for the United States marshal to restore the train to the receivers. Deputy Marshals Westfall, Everhardt and Burroughs left at once for Edwardsville.

OMAHA, June 14.—Judge Dundy telegraphed United States Attorney General Olney for troops to protect the Union Pacific railway from further Commonwealers at Julesburg and Ogalalla. There is intense excitement at Julesburg. There are fully 600 of the Coxeyites there who are a part of the Carter army which formed in Utah and stole one train. They are desperate, for they cannot go to Denver, having been sent from there with a farewell lot of provisions to last them "for keeps." Forty of the army stole a Union Pacific stock train yesterday and were sidetracked at Ogalalla.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., June 14.—Judge Thomas, of the United States circuit court, found Captain J. A. Ralston, Color Sergeant Frank E. Woods and Commissary Ed. Hart, leaders of the band of Coxeyites who seized a Union Pacific train at Watkins, Colo., and were captured at Ellis, Kan., guilty of contempt in that they interfered with a road in the hands of a receiver. Judge Thomas sentenced the men each to forty days in jail.

BISMARCK, N. D., June 14.—The Coxeyites succeeded in getting out of town on stolen handcars fitted up with platforms made of stolen lumber. The cars were found near Steele, N. D., but the Wealers had fled. Another party of 160 is being mobilized here and at Mandan. United States Deputy Marshal Daggett has arrived from Fargo with a force of eighty deputies, and trains are being sent out under armed protection.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 14.—Judge Ross, in the United States court, yesterday sentenced the 175 Wealers who stole the train on the Atlantic and Pacific to four months in jail. Judge Ross has received a letter threatening dynamite.

Governor Hogg Eastward Bound.

DALLAS, Tex., June 14.—Governor Hogg and party left here today for the east on a business trip in the interest of Texas. The party consists of several bankers and mayors of cities from various parts of the state. Governor Hogg will deliver addresses in behalf of Texas in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Boston and St. Louis. He will also deliver an address before the Tammany society of New York on July 4. It is believed in Texas that Tammany's invitation is the first step in introducing him to the country as the possible second man on the next Democratic presidential ticket.

National Tube Works Still Closed.

McKEESPORT, Pa., June 14.—Since the failure of the business men to accomplish anything in their attempt to settle the trouble between the National Tube Works company and its employees the matter is at a standstill. General Manager Converse says emphatically that the works will stand idle for a long time before he will advance wages, owing to the business depression throughout the country. Mr Converse says, however, that whenever business should justify it he would be glad to pay better wages. The strikers show no disposition to return to work.

Death of Baron Nicotera.

NAPLES, June 14.—Baron Giovanni Nicotera, ex-minister of the interior and one of Italy's foremost statesmen, died at Vico Equense, near this city. Baron Nicotera was stricken with apoplexy in Rome on Feb 24. At the time of his death he was a member of the chamber of deputies for Salerno. A friend of Garibaldi, he was an ardent Republican in his youth, but he became a monarchist in middle life.

Father and Child Killed by an Explosion.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., June 14.—A sixty-five horse power boiler in the saw mill of [illegible] & Co., at Daisy, on the Fall Brook railroad, above Williamsport, exploded last night, killing Joseph [illegible] and his 8-year-old daughter, and burying them in the ruins of the mill. [illegible], who was the fireman in the mill, had gone to the place with his child for the purpose of banking the fire for the night.

THE TRIAL OF WIMAN.

Opening of the Defence in the Great Forgery Trial.

WIMAN'S INTEREST IN THE FIRM.

The Defence Asserts That the Prisoner Alone Was Responsible for the Success of the Mercantile Agency—The Case May Reach the Jury Tonight.

NEW YORK, June 14.—In the third day's trial of Erastus Wiman for alleged forgery several checks drawn by the defendant were presented in evidence and identified by witnesses. The letter of Mr. Wiman to Mr. Dun, in which he confesses that he signed the name of E. W. Bullinger on the back of two checks of Dun's firm was read. In the letter Mr. Wiman pleads for mercy on account of his wife and children.

Then General Tracy arose and made the usual motion for dismissal of the case. That being denied, he then moved that all evidence touching upon the $15,000 check be stricken out, and in consequence request the dismissal of the whole of the first count indictment. All this being denied he then opened by seeking to show that Wiman was a partner in the firm of Dun & Co., and that as such his actions were strictly legal, "if at times somewhat irregular."

Then Mr. Boardman opened his address to the jury. He prefaced his address by saying that it lay with the jury to decide the measure of Mr Wiman's guilt. This must be shown beyond all peradventure regardless of what views may be entertained by the court or prosecution.

"Call this association what you will," said Mr Boardman, "it cannot be denied that Mr Wiman was the head and front of the firm of R. G. Dun & Co., so far as the control of its affairs was concerned. We concede that Mr Wiman signed the name of Mr Bullinger to two checks. We concede that Mr Wiman deposited these checks to his own account in his own bank. We concede the indebtedness of Mr Wiman to the association.

"The letter of confession," added Mr Boardman, "was admitted by us to show the relations of Mr Wiman toward Mr Dun.

"Mr Wiman was the real power behind the firm of R. G. Dun & Co. You have seen the smooth and oily Mr Douglass on the stand. Gentlemen, I ask you whether he would ever be equal to running the affairs of this gigantic concern. I ask you how long it would take him to bring the concern's profits up to half a million a year, more than $1,350 a day, for Mr Dun, who never concerned himself about the affairs of the concern, but let Mr Wiman do it all."

Mr Boardman gave a detailed description of Mr Wiman's Staten Island ventures, among them the acquisition of the Staten Island ferries, into which Mr Dun put $200,000. "I say this," went on Mr Boardman, "to show that Mr Wiman kept nothing from Mr Dun. That he was at all times open and frank and truthful."

Then Mr Boardman dilated upon what he called the extraordinary character of the prosecution in this case. "Would you take by the hand a man like Mr. Dun, who gives to the public authorities a paper so sacred and confidential as this letter of July 1, 1893?"

"The prosecution of Wiman dates back to the year 1866 when Mr Wiman came on here to take the management of the New York office at the earnest wish of Mr Dun. In order to make my meaning clear it should be said that Mr Dun is childless. Following the death of Mr. Barlow, Mr Dun's partner, Mr Douglass, whose uncle had been one of the founders of the commercial agency, thought that he ought to take the place of his uncle.

"Gentlemen, that man Douglass was Mr Wiman's arch enemy from the very beginning. Mr Dun stood by Mr. Wiman through all at first, but you know constant dropping will wear away the hardest stone. Douglass' opportunity came when he was apprised of the two Bullinger checks. He was happy then, happy to strike down the mainstay of the firm."

In closing Mr Boardman said, with choked utterance: "I would rather stand before this bar charged with all that Mr Wiman is charged with all that it implies, than I would stand in the shoes of Mr Dun."

General Tracy then called the defendant to the stand and asked him to tell the jury in as brief a manner as he could the story of his life up to the present day. Mr Wiman declared that during his time as manager of the commercial agency the firm's profits increased from nothing at first to [illegible] to $100,000, to $350,000, and in successive jumps to half a million, which in round numbers was the net profit of the agency when he was dropped out of it.

Speaking to Mr Dun of his overdrafts, witness [illegible] told him that he then owned at least [illegible] of real estate on Staten Island [illegible] and that he [illegible] by him [illegible] might owe it. [illegible]

At [illegible] General Tracy read a letter written [illegible] Mr Dun on Jan 12, 1893, in which Mr [illegible] that he had heard [illegible] in the letter Mr Dun [illegible] to $3,000 a month.

After the reading of this letter court was adjourned until today. The case will go to the jury tonight.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE FOR KANSAS

Populists So Decide by a Large Majority. Governor Lewelling Renominated.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 14.—The People's party state convention used the entire morning endeavoring to reach a conclusion whether to put a woman suffrage plank in the platform or leave it out. At 1 o'clock the convention decided to insert a woman suffrage plank by a vote of [illegible] to [illegible].

A wild scene followed. The delegates and visitors gave cheer after cheer, rose to their feet and hurled their hats up to the high ceiling. Banners and flags were seized and waved among a snowstorm of handkerchiefs. Laura Johns, the Republican suffragist, seized a Populist badge and pinned it on her shoulder. Susan B. Anthony almost cried in her joy, and raising both her hands, wrung the outstretched palms of the delegates, right and left.

The sensation of the day was sprung in the convention in the shape of a resolution denouncing the A. P. A. A motion to table it was lost, 295 to 318, and it was passed by a viva voce vote.

The following ticket was nominated: For governor, L. D. Lewelling (by acclamation); lieutenant governor, D. G. Furbeck; secretary of state, J. W. Amis; treasurer, W. H. Biddle; attorney general, John T. Little; auditor, Van B. Prather; congressman-at-large, W. A. Harris; associate justice of the supreme court, George W. Clark.

Father Corbett's Trial Begun.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., June 14.—The trial of Father Corbett for refusing to obey the injunction of the court restraining him from holding services in Palmyra, commenced yesterday. Eighteen priests are present to testify for Corbett, and Bishop Bonacum will appear against him. Bishop Bonacum claims that Corbett excommunicated himself under the canonical law by citing his bishop to appear in a civil court, and therefore can no longer exercise his priestly functions. Corbett replies by declaring that the bishop first appealed to a civil court and by his own argument was first excommunicated. The trial has far reaching consequences in the Catholic church of America, as calculated to limit a bishop's authority.

Decoy Letters Illegal.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Judge Grosscup, of the United States circuit court, rendered a decision which will make it more difficult for postoffice inspectors to obtain evidence against violators of the postal laws. It was in the case of James Palmer, a letter carrier, who was charged with stealing from the mails. The court decided that a test or decoy letter which was used to entrap Palmer was not in the mails in the legal sense at the time it was alleged to have been taken by the carrier. The jury was instructed to bring in a verdict of not guilty.

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuff, powders or astringents, because they are irritating, do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who had for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can inflict testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm. Your druggist has it.

POLITICS OF BUSINESS.

That Is the Policy of the American Sugar Refining Company.

IT IS STRICTLY NON-PARTISAN.

Under the Wilson Bill Mr. Havemeyer Estimates That Sugar Would Increase One Cent a Pound to the Consumer. What the Trust Costs the People.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Immediately after the senate sugar investigating committee was called to order yesterday Mr. Havemeyer, [illegible] his testimony of Tuesday, made a statement in answer to a question asked by Senator Allen demanding full data concerning the contributions made by the sugar trust in 1892 and '94 for political purposes. This statement is as follows:

Mr Havemeyer—While I am perfectly willing to answer any material matters, under advice of counsel I decline to answer about outside matters. I decline to answer about local contributions. I know of nothing given to the national campaign. There exists no bargain of any nature [illegible] that the company was entitled to anything except what its merits required.

The examination then continued.

Senator Allen—You may state if you can, the difference of protecting your industry under the McKinley act and what it would be under the act as it is now framed in the senate under the Wilson act, with the senate amendment that is now being considered.

Mr Havemeyer—Under the senate amendment it is about one quarter what it is under the McKinley bill.

In answer to questions by Senator Allen Mr Havemeyer stated that the profits of the sugar trust during the last three years had been three-eighths of a cent a pound on refined sugar.

Senator Lodge—What would you estimate the increased price to the consumer under the proposed bill?

Mr Havemeyer—A cent a pound from the present price.

Further along Senator Lindsay said, "Is it not a fact that being able to fix the price in America it has been the policy of the trust to fix it just low enough to keep out refined sugar made in foreign countries?"

Mr Havemeyer—That is the business, practically of the American Sugar Refining company.

Senator Lindsay—And you have so fixed it as to practically exclude all foreign competition?

Mr Havemeyer—Yes sir, as protection to our own business every pound of foreign sugar consumed in this country is at the expense of the American Sugar Refining company and any diminution of the meltings of the sugar refining company means an increased cost to them of manufacture.

The price of sugar to the consumer in Germany, the witness said, was one cent a pound higher than in the United States. The cost of production was about three-quarters of a cent less, but the government added a duty of two cents a pound.

Mr Havemeyer admitted that the purpose of the formation of the trust was to increase the cost on American consumers.

Senator Allen—And when you did form the trust you did advance the price of sugar to the American consumer?

Mr Havemeyer—We did. It was an advance of about a quarter of a cent net.

Senator Allen—And the American consumer is today paying three-eighths of a cent a pound on refined sugars more than he would be compelled to pay under a system of separate refineries?

Mr Havemeyer—Yes, sir.

Senator Allen—If the trust were wiped out the American consumer would be benefited to the extent of three-eighths of a cent a pound on his sugar.

Mr Havemeyer—I will admit that. But anything that will wipe out the trust will wipe out the industry.

Again referring to the matter of campaign contributions, Senator Allen asked: "You never contribute to the campaign fund of a party in the minority?"

Mr Havemeyer—We may. I will not say that we do not.

Senator Allen—Does not other corporations [illegible] those same states do the same thing, that you know?

Mr Havemeyer—I understand every individual, corporation and firm in existence does it in their respective states. The American Sugar Refining company has no politics of any kind only the politics of business.

John A. Searles, secretary and treasurer of the American Sugar Refining company, was the subject of the committee's questions from 1 until 3 o'clock. His examination was on the same general line as that of Mr Havemeyer.

This is to certify that I have been ruptured on both sides twenty-five years.

That Drs. Jones and Potter, of 1270 Broadway, New York, Rupture Specialists, have completely cured me in seven weeks.

I have not had any inconvenience from the treatment.

I have been examined by two physicians of Middletown, and they both pronounce me cured. WM. INMAN.

A ROSE RHYME TO JULIET.

Heedless how it may fare with Time,
I send you here a rose of rhyme,
Its tint ... love, its color glow
Caught from Hope's ever constant sun.
... with a living wrist—
Your eyes, more may witness it,
And a ... to see
Another heart—the heart of me.

... ... sweet ... worn
By you as by your sweet ... worn,
... you like them, I am not to give
... to them while they live.
... against your bosom rest
... sweet ... its life were blest.
... should ... chance to cast it by,
It would not find it hard to die.

So take this bloom of love and song,
And ... or be it ... long
Know that for you ... petals part,
Disclosing all its ... heart
For you its ... are drawn;
For you its color—love's glad dawn,
And for you ... heart that goes
Song ... rhyme of rose!

RESTITUTION.

The parliamentary session had adjourned, the Hon M. Grandcadet, deputy for the Deux-Garonnes, took the express—free, thanks to his annual pass—and hied himself to feel the pulse of public opinion in his native town.

Comfortably installed in a corner of the carriage M Grandcadet unfolded a voluminous evening newspaper, very erudite and ministerial, and edited in a prose as heavy and depressing as virtue, the typography of which had a grave and parliamentary air about it. The Panama scandal—magnificent, as every one knows, and exaggerated with so much malevolence by the enemies of the republic—was insultingly relegated to the third page and reported and printed in such small type as to be almost illegible. By contrast the columns of this austere organ were filled with foreign politics, articles of palpitating interest, which commented in the following terms, "Matters are very serious in Venezuela," or else, "Are the days of the Tricoupis ministry counted?"

To make a good impression on the white mustached colonel, who sat opposite to him tranquilly reading La Cocarde, M. Grandcadet did not lift his eyes from the official sheet and appeared to be deeply interested in the Hellenic crisis and in the last dispatches from Carracas. But in reality M Grandcadet was very much upset by the last turn affairs had taken, and a deep feeling of anxiety possessed him

His name had not been mentioned yet. Good, so far He had written nothing, signed nothing Wonderful thoughtfulness on his part But who could answer for what might happen later? Some of these fine mornings a compromising paper might come to light For, between ourselves, he had handled his little boodle in an honest, honorable way among comrades and he had not thought much about the matter Come, I will allow my readers to pass judgment upon him. He was neutral at the last appeal for funds. A man of consideration, a rich banker, whom he met very often in his political circle, and with whom he was on very good terms—in fact, almost a friend—opened his eyes, gave him to understand how opportune—shall I say patriotic—it was to vote favorably to the emission This man, who knew how to live, who was a perfect gentleman, proposed to him—in most delicate terms—to associate himself with the financial operations in perspective—naturally enough, when there was a question of this great scheme—and promised him some recompense in advance—to calm his scruples—a percentage, mon Dieu, not an enormous one, a miserable check for 25,000 francs Do not gainsay me, you would all have done the same as M Grandcadet did And I know what you are going to say to me, "The subscribers, what about them?" Listen to reason In case of success they would have said nothing, for they would have made a very advantageous investment. They were merely gamblers. Would you know my way of thinking? Well, the subscribers were of no earthly account. Could Grandcadet divine that this famous canal would never be cut through? But several times before he had realized some benefits from affairs of the same kind, which had been more or less ... , and nobody had found fault with him.

Well, frankly, with his hand on his heart, he reproached himself for nothing. And I must confess it he did not believe in this burst of public indignation. That was all humbug. It was easy to recognize back of all this indignation a plot of the old parties, the hands of the Comte de Paris and the Boulangists. The president du conseil had said as much to them ... he had been there—he, Grandcadet—to defend the ... and at the risk of ... you ... would not have ... capable of so much ... and character, with his well ... whiskers and his air of a ... But when he was ... learned that was another thing ... it was necessary he ... to be ... on a ... , and his ... the horse Bandin ... "Come and see how ... 25 ... francs."

However, ... of all these fine reasons ... deputy des Deux-Garonnes ... in his mind.

"Suppose I try to rest a little," he said to himself.

He ... watching ... over his ears, ... rolled up in a rug, and stretched ... the seat where ... on ...

Then ... the nightmare Was he ... For myself I think ... that dish of "caviar" ... He should have ... Evidently have ... with him

His dreams were ... bad

At first he ... himself at home opening his eyes and finding that he had been robbed, the ... of a fat pocketbook of ... leather containing all his ... papers there was nothing in the ... but an empty woolen stocking Then suddenly he was transported to the chamber of deputies, but he was alone in his seat in the deserted room, which was dimly lighted by a faint twilight. All the desks were locked, all the doors closed. No trace of anything human was to be seen, but an enormous hat very high and shaped like a garden reservoir stood on the president's desk. Grandcadet gazed at it stupidly. All at once the monstrosity became convulsed and commenced to vomit an innumerable quantity of little squares of white paper, on each of which the unfortunate deputy, endowed with supernatural sight, could read the name of his opponent at the last election. But suddenly the hat collapsed like a gibbet, the top lowered, the walls contracted, and Grandcadet, overwhelmed with surprise and horror, found himself before the court of assizes between two gendarmes and recognized under the red sleeved robes and gold braided caps of the president and two assistant judges his porter, his hairdresser and his housekeeper at Paris, all three ruined by the Panama scheme And the president rose, and in a deep voice read the following extraordinary sentence, which condemned M Grandcadet, the ex-deputy, to gild the Eiffel tower at his own expense from top to bottom in six months' time and then to be impaled on the lightning rod of the edifice.

This was too frightful! The member of parliament awoke with a start. It was just dawn. M Grandcadet recognized the hillsides and vines of his electoral county.

"Decidedly, 'caviar' is not good for me," he thought "It gives me very stupid dreams But I must not give into these bad dreams I am sure of my constituents No Socialists among them and the only possible candidate of the Monarchists, the Marquis de la Tour-Preud-Garde, the partisan of M. Jaime, is not to be feared Besides no one knows the story of my 25,000 francs. Come, have courage."

A carriage stood waiting for M. le Deputy at the station The perfect tranquility of his native city seemed a good omen to him. On his way home the white horse painted on the signboard of the hotel, at which the Boulangists met, did not neigh at him and cry out, "Down with robbers!" or the cock on the weather vane of the church steeple sing, "Panama" under pretense of crowing

As soon as he reached home his servant Theresine, who had been expecting him, served his cafe au lait, and while he was thoroughly enjoying it, "M. Grandcadet," said the young peasant, with a worried air, "I have something very distressing to tell you."

"And what is it, my girl?"

"In the first place, I am about to be married."

"To Pierre, the harness maker across the street? Well, that has been decided upon for two years past. I know all about that. Is it still for next week?"

"Yes. But listen. Before I could be married it was necessary for me to go to confession and tell M le Cure of a sin I had committed against you."

"A sin! And against me?"

"Yes, monsieur, forgive me," cried Theresine, bursting into a flood of tears. "I have stolen from you, yes, for the last two years, and I told M. le Cure, and he has ordered me to return the money which I have taken from you, and here is your money. Oh, to the last penny, I swear!" . .

And the unhappy girl, putting her hand in her pocket, pulled out a handful of gold and poured it on the table in front of her master.

"What is that you say? You have stolen from me!" cried M. Grandcadet, filled with astonishment and anger.

"Alas, monsieur, do not dismiss me and tell no one, I implore you. You see I was not altogether dishonest, as I have returned every sou to you."

"Well, that is all right, but leave me," replied her master impatiently.

And left alone M. Grandcadet fell into a reverie Do not for one moment imagine that he for an instant thought of making restitution of his 25,000 francs boodle. Once for all let it be understood he considered it profit acquired and legitimately acquired. No; in face of this poor girl's action, to whom the priest had recalled her forgotten catechism, it was a sociological reflection to the statesman which presented itself to M. Grandcadet's mind He dreamed for a few moments Then gathering up the money left by Theresine and stuffing it into his pocket—and then, would you believe it?—he, the ardent free thinker who had voted for all the anticlerical bills, murmured softly to himself: "It is a true saying. You must have a religion for the poor."—Francois Coppee.

Book Lover and Bookbinder.

It is very difficult to indicate the probable line of bibliopegic development. Only after many a vain effort and many a doubtful struggle do we ever attain the goal of our desires. Setting our faces to the future, we must let the dead past bury its dead, and we must give up the lifeless imitation of defunct styles. Greater variety is needed, greater freedom also, such as some of the other decorative arts have achieved of late years. The duty of the book lover is equal to that of the bookbinder. They must needs work together for the advance of the art. For their collaboration to be pregnant the book lover must educate himself in the possibilities and in the technical limitations of the art. Every architect will confess that he has had many a practical suggestion from his clients, and more often from the wives of his clients, and the influence of the book lover on the bookbinder can be even more beneficial.—Brander Matthews in Century.

A Luminous Jelly.

The electric light lends itself admirably to household decoration. Among other curious ways is a table decoration in which jelly is illuminated by a light shining through the mass from the center. When the dish, at first hidden by a silver cover and a mass of flowers, is suddenly uncovered, the effect is very striking.—Electricity.

Milk Pans,

and pails, and cans, and bottles (even baby's)—or anything that you want particularly clean, ought to be washed with Pearline. You'll save work in doing it, and it's a great deal more thoroughly done. Dairies and dealers use Pearline extensively. Just try it once, on your milk-ware or butter-ware—and then say if it isn't the most satisfactory way of cleaning. Pearline is the most economical thing you can use, too. You get so much more out of it

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 306 JAMES PYLE, New York.

OUR NEXT PRESIDENT!

SOMEBODY will be the next President of the United States. The ARGUS and MERCURY gives to its readers the portrait and life story of the man who is GOING TO BE ELECTED

To the Presidency at the end of Mr. Cleveland's term. It would give his name here but for the circumstance that he is lost among 236 of the greatest men and women of America, and it is as yet impossible to distinguish him exactly. In "America's Greatest Men and Women," the remarkable work now obtainable through the ARGUS and MERCURY, appears certainly the portrait of the next President, because there appear in that work the portraits of all the leading men and women of the country, and among them most certainly is the chief executive to be chosen in 1896.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

Is assuredly the most valuable and most interesting publication of recent times. The marvel is that such a work has not been produced before. It does not wait for death: It gives the portraits—and these portraits are 10x14 inches in size and are reproduced from recent photographs of all the people described—and gives a complete and graphic biography of each person. Think of the value such a work as this must be to anybody! Think of what an educator it must be for even the children who read it! Was there ever issued a book likely to be more attractive in all ways or more of an absolute necessity? It can be obtained in a manner (which has already been described in the columns of this paper, but which may be here repeated.

You Can Get This Work Only Through the Daily Argus and Mercury.

HERE ARE the TERMS.

IN EVERY ISSUE OF THE ARGUS AND MERCURY will appear a numbered coupon Cut this coupon out and bring or forward it, together with TEN CENTS, to the Coupon Department of the ARGUS and MERCURY and there will be delivered or mailed to you one number of the series as above. The remaining parts can be obtained as issued, one each week, by the readers of the ARGUS and MERCURY under the same conditions.

MONTGOMERY.

A Busy Corner—Base Ball Game—Festival for the Ball Club—The Endeavorers' Convention.

Correspondence Argus and Mercury.

—The corners of Clinton and Fought streets seem at present to be the most progressive portion of our village. At one corner the M. E. Church has just been painted; opposite that edifice a reminder of Coney Island seems to have sprung up; on another corner the band stand has just been thoroughly overhauled, and across the way, Brown Bros., have just had an extensive sign painted on their new store, by that artistic workman, George H. Young. The Coney Island part, as the Reporter calls it, is an enterprise situated on the Thos. Chambers property. The public call "Tom," "John Y. McKane," as he is always around and seems to be the boss. A photograph gallery, a merry-go-round, a place to purchase frankforters and a good old well to take the place of Coney Island's frothy beer.

—The Montgomery Base Ball Club will open the season on the Driving Park, Friday, June 15th, by a game with the Goshen Base Ball Club.

—The base ball club will hold a strawberry and ice cream festival, Tuesday evening, June 19th, on the church lawn. The band concerts begin that evening, and everbody should turn out to help the boys along.

—The Y. P. S. C. E. convention, which was held at the Brick Church, Saturday, was a grand affair. The estimated attendance was over 800.

JOHNSON.

Change in Date of Festival.

Correspondence Argus and Mercury.

—The ladies of this place will hold an ice cream and strawberry social in Clark's Hall, on Thursday evening, June 21st, instead of Tuesday, the 19th, as announced last Sunday. The change of date was made on account of other festivals nearby being appointed for Tuesday. If stormy it will be on Friday evening. Proceeds to be used for room rent and Sunday School expenses. The committee will be pleased to see all their friends and neighbors on that occasion.

—There will be no service in the church, on Sunday morning; service in the evening, the same as usual.

The Small Boy Welcomes the Circus.

The small boy turned out in full force, this morning, to see the circus come in. The train arrived here, from Port Jervis, about 2 o'clock, but the work of unloading was not begun until about 5 o'clock. There were nine cars in the train, several of which contained animals. A Port Jervisite, who was in Middletown, to-day, said that the circus gave an excellent entertainment there, last evening.

Thousands of infants are every season safely carried through the trying summer, kept well, and steadily gain in weight and size by the use of lactated food.

Mrs. L. L. Bartlett, 563 W. Sanborn street, Winona, Minn., writes: "I nursed our baby until he was four months old, and my health was in such a terrible state that it threw him into inflammation of the bowels of a severe type. His life was despaired of. I had heard about lactated food, and by the advice of the attending physician, we purchased some. The baby liked it from the first and it agreed with him. He got well and began to grow fat at once. At six months of age he weighed 25 pounds. He never had the slightest trouble with teething, his teeth coming without our knowledge until we could see them. On the whole he is one of the happiest, sweetest babies one would care to see."

No family should be without lactated food from this time on.

Used Dynamite Because He Was Refused Beer.

Samuel Coe, who lives in the interior of Rockland county, Tuesday, attempted to blow up with dynamite a building in which was located the saloon of George Yatto, three miles from Spring Valley, because the proprietor refused to serve him with a glass of beer. He succeeded in demolishing a large part of the house. Coe was arrested and lodged in jail. It is thought he obtained the cartridges from a railroad switch shanty.

DAILY ARGUS.

C. MACARDELL, PUBLISHER.

[illegible]

THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1894.

A negro, identified as the assailant of a young white woman, whom he left for dead, was strung up by his captors at Blackshear, Ga., Monday night. After he had hung for a moment it occurred to some one in the crowd that hanging was too good for the wretch, so he was lowered to the ground and skinned alive. He lived for six hours after he had been flayed. Of course it was very brutal, but it takes a good deal of effort to get up even a little sympathy for the poor devil assailed to such a cruel death.

The report of Mint Director Preston shows how groundless are the fears of those who predict that the world's supply of gold will soon be exhausted. The production, last year, was $1[illegible], an increase of $1[illegible] over 1892. This country, which leads in gold production, yielded, last year, gold of the value of $[illegible], as compared with $33,-[illegible] in 1892. The silver product of the United States was last year 6[illegible],-[illegible] ounces, of the coining value of $[illegible], while its output for 1892 was of the coining value of only $[illegible].

President Cleveland, yesterday, after several conferences with Secretary Lamont, appointed the following Board of Engineers to recommend the length of span of the New York and New Jersey bridge: Professor W. H. Burr and Theodore Cooper, of New York city; George S. Morrison, of Chicago; G. Bouscaren, of Cincinnati, and Major C. W. Raymond, Corps of Engineers, United States Army. The members of the Board have all had practical experience in planning and constructing large bridges, and the President's choice is heartily commended in all quarters. The Board will meet at once and complete its labors at the earliest possible day.

Mayor Schieren, of Brooklyn, has done some very [illegible] things and made some very [illegible] since his administration began, but he has never been quite so [illegible] and [illegible] as in his reply to the women who petitioned him to appoint some of their sex members of the Board of Education. He says that he would like to grant their request, has always thought women ought to be represented on the school boards and would be glad if the Constitutional Convention would adopt an amendment requiring mayors to appoint women to such places, but he could do nothing in this instance, because before receiving the petition he had made up his mind to appoint men to all the vacancies. It's bad enough for the women to have their petition disregarded, but that is nothing compared with the insult to their intelligence involved in the Mayor's excuse for ignoring their request.

President Havemeyer, of the Sugar Trust, refused, yesterday, to tell the Senate investigating committee how much the trust had contributed to Democratic and Republican campaign funds. He testified, however, with apparent frankness as to the profits of the trust, saying that since the McKinley bill took effect it had made three-eighths of a cent a pound on all the sugar it had refined. Under the proposed tariff the profits of the trust would be only a quarter of what they had been under the McKinley law. This admission by Mr Havemeyer puts the much criticised sugar [illegible] of the new tariff act in a better light than it has heretofore [illegible] even if the cost of sugar is slightly increased it will be some satisfaction for the consumer to know that the money is going into the treasury of the government and not helping to swell the enormous profits of the trust.

Kansas Republicans dodged the prohibition issue in their platform and their silence is the more noteworthy because, ever since the prohibitory amendment to the Constitution was adopted in 1880 by Republican votes, the party has annually affirmed its loyalty to the prohibition cause. What makes the party's silence this year more significant is that the movement to repeal the amendment has been steadily gaining ground and a re-affirmance of belief in and loyalty to prohibition would have been more than empty words. The reason for silence on the subject of prohibition is, of course, that the party leaders believed there were more votes to be [illegible] by ignoring the subject, and this indicates that prohibition sentiment is not as strong in Kansas as it has been. The only possible reason for this is that the people realize that prohibition does not prohibit, and it is predicted that Kansas, following the example of Iowa, will before long do away with prohibition and substitute for it some local option or some law that can be enforced.

WHY DON'T WE SELL AMERICAN MADE TOOTH BRUSHES? Because we don't know any such—genuine—the experiment has been tried but without success.
The best brush we can find is the CROWN TOOTH BRUSH—LONDON MADE. Why, we've sold them for twenty five years and are still selling them—and what a use they've been! We like goods of that kind which you can sell year after year and hold your trade.
Then for a cheaper tooth brush, we've some excellent Japanese-made brushes—clever people those Japs!
Next comes a lot of French Tooth Brushes, all grades—right in price and quality as usual.

Mr. Evans takes duty at Warwick.

HYMENEAL.

Walsh-McConnell.

A very interesting event occurred last evening, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John McConnell, No. 306 North street, when their daughter, Miss Mame, was united in marriage to Mr. Timothy Walsh, the junior member of the firm of Atkins & Walsh, the North End blacksmiths.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Norris, of the North Street Congregational Church, assisted by Rev. Lyman E. Davis, a former pastor of the church.

During the ceremony the bridal couple stood under an arch of evergreens, laurel and roses, which had been erected in the parlor of the residence.

The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Walsh, of Montgomery, a sister of the groom, and the groomsman was Mr. Ed. Bowers, of Yonkers.

The ushers were Mr. Wm. Hall, of this city, and Mr. Robt. Walsh, of Davenport, N. Y., a brother of the groom. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Mr. Ernest T. Winchester.

The bride was becomingly attired in a costume of cream taffeta silk, trimmed with white silk lace. She carried a bouquet of Marechal Neil roses.

After the ceremony the wedding party adjourned to Nicholson's Hall, where a bounteous supper was served, 125 guests being present.

Among the guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Otis Nichols, Mrs. Frank Benedict and daughter, Miss Gertie Bingley and Miss Kate Hearn, all of Walden.

The presents were numerous and beautiful, among them being a large plush rocker, the gift of Ontario Hose Company, of which the groom is Secretary.

The groom is also an active member of Hoffman Lodge, F. A. M.; Middletown Lodge, I. O. O. F., and the Walden Lodge of Foresters.

The bride is a most estimable young lady with a large circle of friends, with whom the ARGUS joins in extending congratulations.

EXCELSIORS TO CENTENNIALS.

A Handsome Clock Presented to the Peekskill Company in Memory of Hospitality in 1892.

Messrs. Alton J. Vail, Clarence S. Abrams, George W. Young, and Ed. S. Ayres, a committee from Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, went to Peekskill, last night, where they presented Centennial Hose Co., No. 4, of that village, with a handsome clock, in commemoration of Excelsiors' visit Oct 5, 1892.

A special meeting of the Peekskill company had been called and was well attended. Mr. Vail made the presentation address and it was accepted by the President of Centennials.

The committee was royally entertained during the evening.

Ice Cream Festival To-night.

The Womens' Relief Corps, of Gen. Lyon Post will hold a strawberry and ice cream festival, this evening, in the Free Christian Church, Linden avenue. Both G. A. R. posts and the new relief corps, are cordially invited to attend. Admission free, all welcome. The public should patronize the ladies liberally, as the corps is doing a good work among the soldiers. Go, to-night, and spend a pleasant evening.

Newly Painted Lamp Posts—How About the Hydrants.

The authorities have had the lamp posts about the city repainted. It is now in order for the Board of Water Commissioners to have the hydrants about town repainted. And by the way, would it not be a good idea to change the color to a bright red instead of green. The hydrants would be more readily found by the firemen when occasion required if this were done.

SPECIAL TAX ELECTION

In Progress at the Assembly Rooms—Polls Open Until 8 p. m.

The special tax election to decide whether certain items of appropriation asked for by the Common Council for extraordinary purposes and which, under the provisions of the amendment to the charter, adopted last winter, cannot be included by the Aldermen in the budget which they are authorized to make up, is in progress at the Assembly Rooms, this afternoon.

The polls opened at 2 o'clock and will close at 8 o'clock. Only taxpayers can vote. The election is in charge of Thomas A. March, Robert Lemon and Charles B. Hulse as inspectors.

The items to be voted on are:

Board of Education—For addition to School No. 2, Highland avenue	$ 6,500 00
Permanent street improvement	5,000 00
Winding town clocks	100 00
Fire alarm system	500 00
Fire parade	350 00
Thrall Hospital	1,250 00
Gen. Lyon Post, G. A. R.	50 00
Capt. Wm. A. Jackson Post, G. A. R.	50 00
Total	$13,000 00

Up to 3 o'clock, only thirty votes had been received.

The question has been asked several times, to-day, if women, who are taxpayers, can vote. We are sorry to be compelled to say that they are barred by the provisions of the law, which says that only male residents may have a voice in saying how much or how little taxes shall be raised.

COLUMBIA COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.

Three Young Middletowners Graduate from the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, their daughters, M. Ada and Cora Smith, and their son, Master George Smith, Jr., Hon. M. D. Stivers and wife, and Mr. L. S. Stivers, were present at the 140th annual commencement of Columbia College, last night, in Carnegie Hall, New York city.

Hon. Seth Low, President of the college presented the diplomas.

Among the graduates of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, which is a department of the institution, were Arthur Lee Macken, Alfred Keene Smith and Moses Ashby Stivers, of this city. One hundred and twenty students became full fledged M. D's., out of a class of 130.

The locations of Drs. Macken and Smith, are not known at present. Dr. Stivers, one of the youngest of the graduates, after a competitive examination, has received an appointment as assistant physician and surgeon in the New York Cancer Hospital, and will go there in September for sixteen months.

—The many friends of Miss Lizzie Cody, of Port Jervis, will be pleased to learn that she is rapidly recovering from her long illness.

THE PEARL BUTTON FACTORY.

Work Well Under Way in Middletown's Newest Industry—The Force to be Largely Increased—Electricity the Motive Power.

Middletown's newest industry, the pearl button factory, recently started at the North End, by Mr. E. M. Ichelheimer, of 384 Canal street, New York, promises to take a prominent place in the list of Middletown's manufactories.

There are already nine employes at work, and within the next two weeks, thirty additional hands will be employed, most of whom will be skilled mechanics from New York city.

Thirty lathes have been set up on the lower floor of the building on North street, which was formerly used as a soap factory. The machinery is run by electricity, by means of a five horse power motor, manufactured by the Connecticut Dynamo and Motor Co., of Hartford, Conn. The current is obtained from the trolley wire of the Middletown-Goshen Traction Company.

When an ARGUS reporter called at the factory, this morning, the operators were engaged in making shirt buttons. The large mother of pearl shells, which are used are obtained from Sidney, Australia, and from the island of Hayti. Green snail shell will also be used.

The button passes through an interesting process and a number of hands before completion, the entire work being fully explained to the reporter by the obliging foreman, Mr. F. Largay.

Mr. Ichelheimer is a resident of New York city, where he has been in the importing and manufacturing business for many years.

—One of the abutments for the new iron bridge is completed and work has commenced on the other one.

—Frank Yonker is making several improvements on his house on Main street.

—E. L. Kilbourne moved in his new house on Rock avenue last week.

—There is some talk of moving the DeBruce creamery from that place to this village.

—Stanley H. Sprague's horses ran away in this village, Tuesday afternoon, throwing Mr. Sprague out of the wagon and smashing one of the wagon wheels quite badly. No other damage was done.

—A. P. DuBois & Co. are treating their store to a new coat of paint.

—Felix E. Donehue is having his yard fixed up and a new iron fence put around it.

WESTTOWN.

Correspondence ARGUS and MEMORY.

—Mr. Tim S. Delamarter, accompanied by his son, Frank, returned, to-day, from a visit to his former home at Liberty, where he had been called by the serious illness of a sister. Mr. Delamarter had not visited the scene of his boyhood days for twenty years and was greatly surprised at the improvement and growth of the place.

Population of the State Hospital.

According to the Conglomerate there were, Wednesday, 1,037 patients in the State Hospital, in this city, of whom 513 were males and 524 females. During the week five patients were admitted and five discharged.

The Driving Park.

The Middletown Driving Park (better known as Campbell's track) is a popular place with horsemen at present. The condition of the track is constantly improving and the officers of the association predict some fast time at the fall meeting.

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.

Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

Dr. Franklin Miles, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

AN IRISH BOY'S FORTUNE.

He Comes to America, Makes a Fortune and Buys a Castle In Ireland.

Thirty years ago there landed on our shores a young Irishman named Thomas Nevins. He was accompanied by his youthful wife and had in his pockets a few hundred pounds with which to begin life in the land of the free. He secured employment at Orange, N. J., and so well did he prosper that in a few years he was able to start in business on his own account. He became a contractor and built houses, roads and street railways, and now at the age of 51 he is a millionaire and one of the most solid and respected citizens of that beautiful town. Mr. Nevins' father was a farmer in the County Meath, and as a youth he tilled the soil within sight of the towers of the baronial castle of Lord Killeen. However high his ambition soared, it is doubtful if the Irish lad had ever dreamed that in the future he should be the owner of that princely dwelling, but such he was destined to become.

THOMAS NEVINS.

Killeen castle is about 25 miles from the city of Dublin and is not far from the famous hill of Tara. The building covers 200 square feet of ground, and the estate comprises about 1,500 acres. There is not a tenant on the land. The castle was originally erected in the eleventh century and is supposed to be one of the oldest inhabited residences in the queen's domains belonging to a subject. History says that King John, signer of the Magna Charter, on one of his visits to Ireland, lived at Killeen castle, and that portion in which he resided is still known as King John's tower.

Mr. Nevins began negotiations for the purchase of Killeen castle more than a year ago. Learning that the estate was to be sold, he wrote to the Earl of Fingall, and a correspondence was begun which resulted in an offer of $300,000 by Mr. Nevins. This was accepted, and next November he will come into possession. The old castle has two drawing rooms, each 30 by 28; two dining rooms, one 40 by 24, and 20 bedrooms, with dressing rooms attached.

AN OLD TIME CARTOONIST.

Thomas Nast Removes to London, Where He Hopes to Be Better Appreciated.

During the period extending from 1862 to 1871 the most talked of artist and the most powerful cartoonist in America was Thomas Nast. Since the latter year, when he reached the zenith of his popularity as a caricaturist, he has done nothing to add to his fame and has been superseded by other and perhaps abler men in his line. His last famous work was his attack on the Tweed ring in New York city, which contributed in a great measure to the final overthrow of that famous cabal. Finding himself superseded by the younger and more popular generation of cartoonists, Mr. Nast has finally abandoned the land of his adoption and removed to London, where he is now engaged in making cartoons for the Pall Mall Gazette. Thomas Nast was born in Landau, Bavaria, in 1840, and six years later was brought to this country by his father. When a boy of 14, he spent six months in the drawing classes of Theodore Kaufmann, and then, with no other preparatory instruction, was engaged as a draftsman on an illustrated paper. In 1860 he went to England as a special artist for a New York weekly paper and later followed Garibaldi in Italy, making sketches for New York, London and Paris illustrated papers. Having returned to this country in 1862, he began his war sketches, which first brought him to public notice and put him on the road to fortune. During the closing years of the war he was more detested in the south than the most rabid abolitionist in New England. When he fought Tweed with his pencil, it was reported that his life was threatened and that bribes were offered him. Nast's pictures are said to have worried Tweed more than all that was written by his opponents.

Mr. Nast did not confine himself exclusively to newspaper work. He illustrated several books, notably those of Petroleum V. Nasby, and for several years after 1872 he published "Nast's Illustrated Almanac." He also appeared on the lecture platform, drawing caricatures on the stage by way of illustrations. He made a great deal of money while his popularity lasted, although he is said to have lost most of it.

Straightening the Eyes of the Japs.

The Japanese have become so progressive in their ideas and so set in their determination to get a position in the van of Caucasian civilization that they are even resorting to artifices to rid themselves of the most distinctive physical feature of the Mongolian ... —the slanting eyes. ... in Tokyo at straightening the eyes of the Japs.

"ADAMANT" WALL PLASTER!

The New, Cheap Substitute for Common Plaster.

It is very hard and very adhesive; it does away with the warping and shrinkage of doors and casings, and the building is not saturated with water, as it necessarily must be when common plaster is used; it costs originally but little more than lime plaster, and in the end its superior qualities make it immeasurably cheaper; it saves waiting several weeks or months for the buildings to dry out; it does not crack or fall off, even in the case of leakage; it is applied easily by any good plasterer; it is the only material with which repairing can be done neatly and "to stay."

Higher Education.

We have now a high school for the culture and development of feminine beauty. At this beauty college the fair pupils are taught the science of imparting the highest degree of graceful expression to their features and movements. The young ladies are taught how to speak—i. e., without pulling faces—and how to pronounce difficult words in the most bewitching manner. One of the most difficult words is the simple "potato." Two hours are barely sufficient to acquire a correct and agreeable pronunciation of the name of this homely tuber. The professors at the college have discovered that music lends a peculiar charm to the expression of the countenance. But the difficulty lies in the choice of the compositions. Ladies of fair complexion grow melancholy as they listen to Chopin. Wagner is specially adapted to dark ladies. His "polychromatic music imparts the requisite softness to brunettes," rendering them charming and pliable. The largest attendance is found, however, at the lectures where the pupils are shown how to sleep—that is to say, with a sweet expression and in a graceful pose. Unfortunately we are not told by what means this delightful accomplishment is to be acquired.—Frankfurter Zeitung.

A Comparison In Years.

How strange our ideas of growing old change as we get on in life! To the girl in her teens the riper maiden of 25 seems quite aged. Twenty-two thinks 35 an "old thing." Thirty-five dreads 40, but congratulates herself that there may still remain some ground to be possessed in the 15 years before the half century shall be attained.

But 50 does not by any means give up the battle of life. It feels middle aged and vigorous and thinks old age is a long way in the future. Sixty remembers those who have done great things at threescore, and one doubts if Parr, when he was married at 100, had at all begun to feel himself an old man.—London Tit-Bits.

Selfish Opposition.

Especially in those women who are always at work upon public opinion by letters, speeches and writings does opposition to woman suffrage seem selfish and narrow. They exercise the largest liberty of affecting the public for themselves, but they would deny to the masses of women even the secret ballot.—Boston Transcript.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Gone.

"Mamma."

Fearfully the golden head tossed upon the pillow. Vainly the great, broad arms sought to soothe the child to slumber.

"Mamma."

The man sat silent in the darkness, and a tear crept down his cheek.

"Mamma."

He rose and gazed from the window into the dimly lighted street. The house seemed oppressively silent.

"Mamma."

"Child, child"—

He was bending low over the bed now.

—"don't make that sounty racket any worse than necessary."

Glancing at his watch, he estimated with a sigh that the dance [illegible] had probably proceeded no further than the York.—Detroit Tribune.

Satisfactory Evidence.

"Jim told me to give him some signal if father was in the house. This ought to satisfy him. I guess he knows what this means."—Life

Said In Fun.

If a man gets up when the day breaks, can he be said to have a whole day before him?—Minneapolis Times.

A Cincinnati preacher says he is tired of a [illegible] and "[illegible] a king." A great deal of money is lost here every night just in that way.—Chicago Dispatch.

"Hello, Hardie! Did you lose anything at the [illegible] this spring?" Hardie—Not a cent. You see, I borrowed all that I bet.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

When a girl is kissed, she closes her eyes; thus a kiss is considered out of sight.—Adams Freeman.

"You pretend to say you are pleased with your daughter's writing when you admit that you can't make out a dozen words in her letter!" Father—Certainly, my dear madam. Now I never know when she writes for more money.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Editor—I want an article written on "How to Make Poultry Pay." Contributor—Well, you'd better ask the man who does the fishing stories then. He's the best liar on the staff.—Ally Sloper.

A cheap summer trip—on a banana skin.—Philadelphia Record.

Whenever the thermometer shows evidences of trying to get up in the world, then all creation acts as if they are warm about it.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The human race is increasing at the rate of 20,000,000 yearly, and still every new father thinks that his one is worth all the other 20,000,000 put together.—Somerville Journal.

It hardly pays wasting your time telling a boy what you did when you were his age. He would rather pass the time telling you what he is going to do when he becomes a man.—Boston Transcript.

"Rest and change are good for people," said the wife as she rose in the night to rifle her husband's pockets. "I've had a rest, and now I think I'll have a little change."—Buffalo Courier.

No man ever complains that a woman talks too much when she's a girl and he's engaged to her.—Somerville Journal.

Help.

The waters of Buck bay broke into myriad ripples at the magic touch of the breeze, and the cranberries on Cape Cod glinted in the sunlight.

"I fear," the maiden mused, "I do not understand myself."

The suitor who had come from afar to seek her hand smiled.

"Permit me," he remarked, "to assist you."

Saying which, he produced from his portmanteau a dictionary of the English language in 30 volumes.—Truth.

A Mother's Natural Pride.

"Look here, now," exclaimed the old hen to her brood, "I'll catch any of you playing with any of those artificial brats next door. I'll warm your necks for you. I've got some pride I have, and I don't ever want to be humiliated by seeing a child of mine hobnobbing with the offspring of a wooden-hearted incubator."—Pearson's Weekly.

A New Name For Them.

Strawber—You look as though you had eat up late last night.

Singerly—I did. And one of the fairest flowers of womanhood promised to be mine.

Strawber—I see. And so those rings under your eyes are engagement rings.—New York World.

Real Hard.

"That horrid Mrs. Dodge! I'll never speak to her again as long as I live!"

He—What did she do?

"I told her I thought my last picture made me look much younger than I am, and she said, 'No one who'd take you for more than 35.'"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Plain Tale.

"Where shall I put this patent medicine advertisement?"

"Under the [illegible]."

"What's that for?"

"Read the [illegible], take the medicine—all we're [illegible] is the ad in our paper!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Industry.

"Why don't you work for your living?" said the bland young man.

"Work for me living?" exclaimed Charles. "Great heavens! Don't I? Father is so careless I have to write him at least twice a week for spending money."—Washington Star.

How He Got Even.

Wool—The woman ahead of me at the play had on a hat as big as a kite, but it didn't bother me very often.

Van Pelt—What did you do?

Wool—Every time it hid my view I gave her husband a silk, clear a kick.—New York World.

Not Yet Ready to Croak.

Motherly Frog—Child, you don't seem well to-day.

Tadpole—That's getting to be an old tale with me, mother, but I'll soon be on my feet.—Chicago Record.

Has Its Uses.

He—There's no place like home, after all.

She—Then you do appreciate your home?

He—Of course I do. That's where I keep my slippers and dressing gown.—Boston Transcript.

SHOTS HERE AND THERE

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

The Imitative Small Boy—Now Building Mimic Railroads—A Boy's Well Equipped Railway—Hon. Luther R. Marsh on the Baconian Theory—Very Neatly Done.

The small boy is a very imitative creature and quick to "catch on" to any new thing and to make an adaptation of it serve to aid him in his sports. Just now when the electric railroad is uppermost in the public mind, the boys have turned railroad builders and, last evening, in two different parts of town, I noticed groups engaged in the mimic work of railroad construction. They were in the middle of the roadway—it's no fun for the average boy to play anywhere else in a street—and had scraped together quantities of dust which they were laying off into sections, which were not a bad imitation of the ties and rails as they now appear on Academy avenue, before the earth has been filled in between the rails. Of course the passing of wagons and carriages interferes somewhat with the work of boyish railroad construction, but railroad construction on a larger scale is sometimes interfered with as well, and as between wagons and injunctions, railroad builders would say, "give us wagons."

In a West Main street yard may be seen an attempt at railroad building on quite a pretentious scale. There the boys have built an inclined road, on which they run a box mounted on wheels and equipped with a brake. The contrivance is quite ingenious. The boys who own the road have as yet only devoted their talents to the mechanical part of railroading. Later, I suppose, they will look after the financial end of the enterprise, will water the stock, issue first mortgage, second mortgage, and consolidated mortgage bonds, pile income bonds on top of those, go into a receiver's hands, re-organize and go on as if nothing had happened, after the style so fashionable in the real railroad world.

In the current number of the Conglomerate Hon. Luther R. Marsh discusses in a very able and interesting article the theory that Bacon wrote the plays of Shakespeare. Mr. Marsh has as little patience with the Baconites as he has with the trolleyites. He doesn't put it into words, but his article makes it plain that he looks on Bacon as a ponderous pedant, with a mind so stored with others' ideas that there was little room left for ideas of his own. He quotes Bacon's essay "On Fortune" as a sample of Bacon's style and then proceeds to show how untenable the proposition is that an author so pedantic, so lacking in originality, so dull at times and with a style so awkward, so condensed as to be obscure, so stiff and stilted, could possibly have written the graceful periods, flowing measures and sonorous verse of Shakespeare's plays. He also shows, too, that there is nothing in Bacon's mind and habits of thought, as indicated in his works, to warrant the belief that he could have written the plays of Shakespeare. To believe that he did so is to believe that Bacon possessed two distinct individualities, one of which was to the front when he wrote essays and the other when he "dropped into poetry," and it is straining credulity to be asked to accept such a belief on the ground of alleged ciphers, concerning which even the Baconites themselves are not agreed.

It isn't often that I think it worth while to praise anything that appears in the columns of the ARGUS's esteemed contemporaries,—not that there's anything mean about me, but its seldom there's anything really worthy of notice. I want, however, to say that Dr. Pillsbury's letter in last night's Press, in reply to Mr. Marsh's savage attack on him, the night before, is a very clever piece of work. It's admirable in temper and felicitous in expression, bristling with telling points and, in spite of its "renewed assurances of most distinguished consideration" style, makes way with the person to whom it is addressed much more effectively than would have been possible had the sledge hammer style of controversy been used. I am sure that Dr. Pillsbury would have won honors as a controversialist if he hadn't elected to shine as a physician.

PUBLIC VOICE

The School House Question—Is It Needed?—If so, Where? How should School Room be Provided—Objections.

EDITORS ARGUS: An average of over fifty pupils to each room, the hiring of two annexes in the Liberty street district and the turning away of many pupils who applied for admission to school, sufficiently answer the question as to whether more school room is needed or not.

The point has been reached where there is no room in primary grades, in any of the schools, for the children who apply at the beginning of the fall and spring terms, and little children could not be sent all over the city to find a vacant place if there was one somewhere out of their district.

The question as to where the surplus is has been sufficiently answered by the hiring of annexes in the Liberty street district, if indeed it was not indicated by the growth of the west side of the city. The only legitimate reason for locating a school anywhere is that it should accommodate the greatest number of pupils.

An eight-room building, in some corner of the city, would only be an elephant on the people's hands, provided the people could be persuaded to vote for such an enterprise.

The addition to High street could be built more economically than the city could buy a lot and build elsewhere for. A large school can be managed more economically than two small ones. It takes but one janitor and one principal. The heating and ventilating are cheaper. Most important of all, it can be better graded and taught, where teachers have one large class in the room instead of two small ones.

The people cannot be united on any single ward scheme for there are always three wards against one.

If the voters cannot take a larger view of public advantage and vote for additional school room when needed and where needed, sinking individual notions as to what is best and relying on the judgment of those entrusted by them with the management of school affairs, they can never have any more school room, for unfortunately it must be located somewhere and most of us do not live in one ward.

As to the need of additional play ground; what would be sufficient? The question is very elastic. The necessary removal of the outbuildings now on the Liberty street lot would leave as much room as the children have at present. Moreover, more can be bought in the neighborhood and for less money than the purchase of grounds elsewhere would amount to. The lot is now 227 feet by 135 in the form an L

It is pertinent to ask those who urge such reasons, why they do not convince the voters of the urgency of the need of more play grounds at Benton avenue or Linden avenue.

The city is growing in all directions and there is no doubt but that in the future, the needs of the city will require still more schools.

Doubtless they will be built so as to accomodate the greatest number, if the voters permit any to be built.

The question now is, shall we provide for present needs in the most ecomonical way?

LIGHTNING'S WORK IN PORT JERVIS

Two Houses Struck by Lightning, Tuesday Night—One of Them Badly Damaged.

Although no rain fell here, Tuesday night, a smart shower passed over Port Jervis, which was accompanied by such very vivid lightning and loud thunder as to cause much alarm.

The house of James Taynton, on Thompson street, was struck about 10 o'clock. The Gazette says that the bolt entered the rear door of the house and followed the gas pipes throughout the house. In the kitchen, a sky light was torn from its hinges and splinters of the wood work flew in directions. In an up stairs bed-room the lightning burned the walls and tore from their position a small mirror and a Masonic certificate belonging to Mr. Taynton. The back of the mirror was broken and the quicksilver burned. The gilded frame on the certificate was also burned. The cellar walls were cracked and damage done about the house in general.

Mr. John La Bar, a son-in-law of Mr. Taynton, who resides in the wing of the house, also received a severe shock. He was playing a banjo at the time and was knocked senseless. The banjo was stricken from his hands and fell upon the floor. The house dog, which was lying on the floor, also received a stroke and for a time was stunned.

The same stroke also entered the residence of Mr. John Delaney near by, and tore the wall paper from the kitchen walls. Slight shocks were felt by Mr. Delaney and his son. Other slight damage was done about that locality.

A Little Girl Brings in a Very Queer Plaything.

South Sussex correspondence of Newton Register

Sidna, the three and a half-year-old daughter of Geo. M. Runion, produced quite an excitement in her home, for a few minutes, last Thursday. She, with a pet kitten, is known to wander over the farm in search of flowers. On the day mentioned she walked into the house, with a medium-sized black snake wound about her arms, and its neck lovingly grasped by her two hands, saying as she entered: "Mamma, see what Tabby's been gettin'!" The mother, though greatly surprised and horrified, secured a hoe and dispatched his snakeship, which showed evidence of anger only when the mother appeared. Only last summer a large rattlesnake was killed nearby, and the child might as easily have picked up a reptile of that species.
